Annual Prize

The Editors and the Publishers are pleased to invite entries for the annual prize awarded to the best article published in the Review by a scholar younger than 35 (on date of first submission).

The prize is awarded to encourage research by young scholars who give evidence of excellence, notably by being thematically groundbreaking, intellectually innovative or empirically significant.

The article can be drawn from the disciplines of Economics, Law or Political Science and must follow the standard submission rules of the Review. The winning article will be chosen by the Selection Board following the publication of the Winter issue.

The author of the winning article will receive credit to the value of EUR1000 to be redeemed against any publications in the Kluwer Law International catalogue. The winner's details will be published in the Spring issue of the following year.

When there is more than one author, all must meet the age criterion.
